Aisha's Amazing Adventures

Aisha loved playing with her toy blocks. She built tall towers and castles.

One day, Aisha saw a shiny mobile phone on the table. She was curious.

Aisha picked up the phone and started tapping the screen.

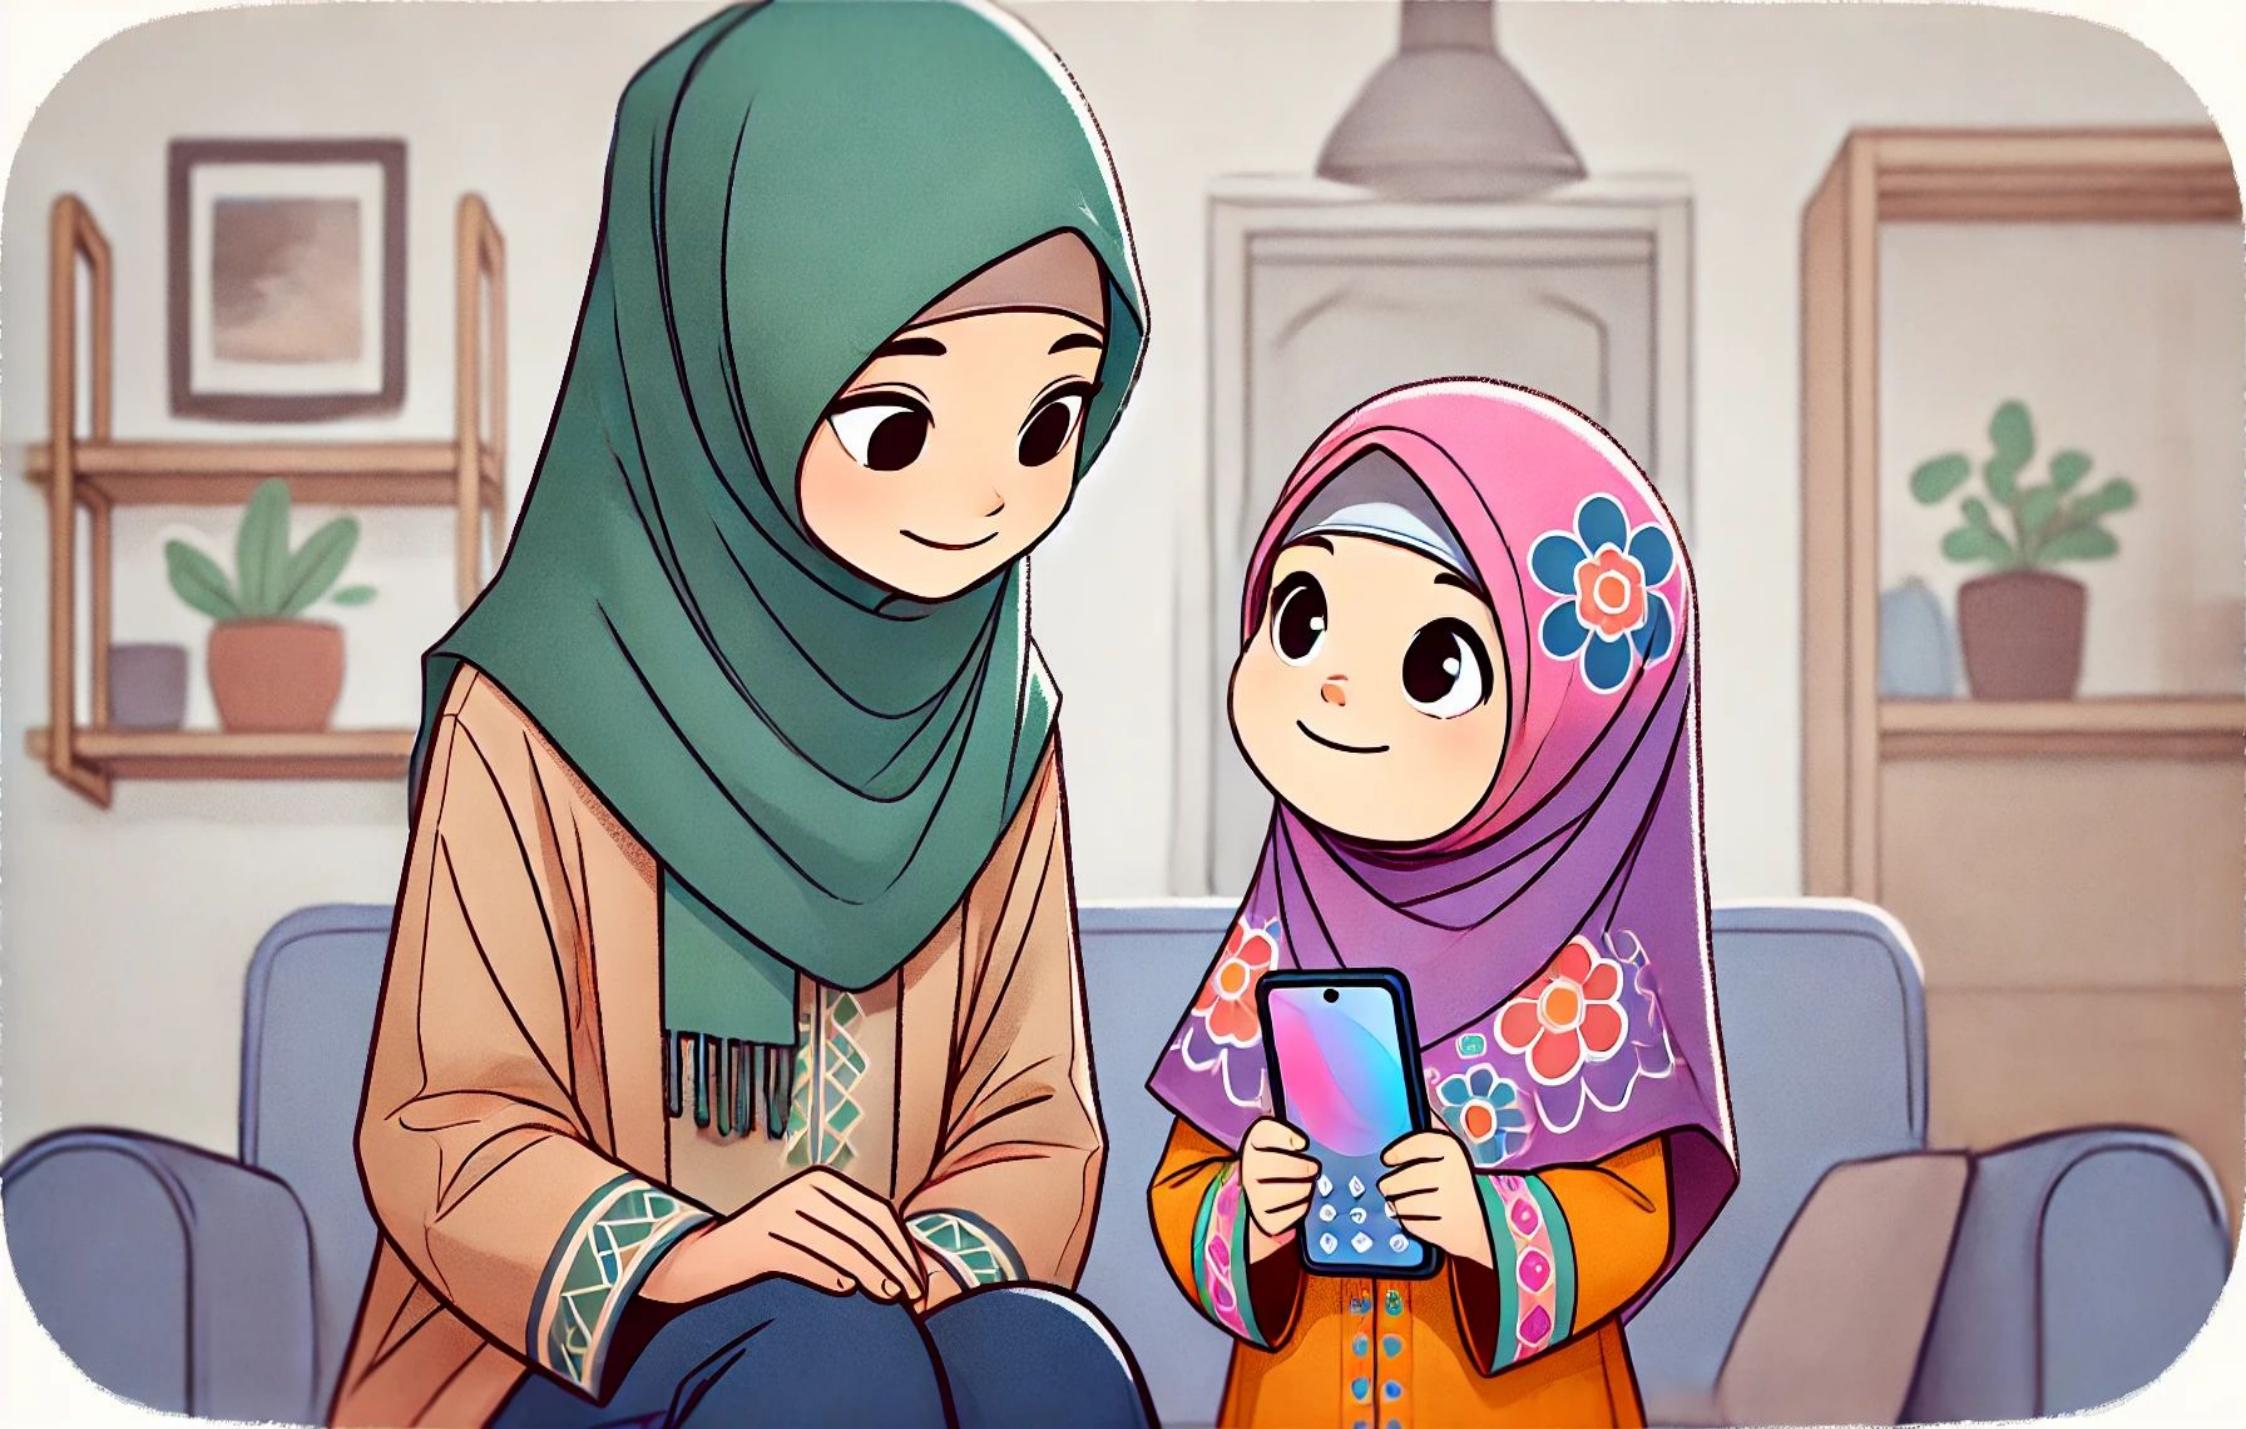

Hours passed, and Aisha didn't play with her toys or go outside.

Her eyes felt tired, and her head started to hurt.

Mama noticed and said, "Too much mobile isn't good for you, Aisha."

Aisha asked, "Why, Mama?"

Mama explained, "It can hurt your eyes and stop you from having fun."

Aisha put the mobile down and asked, "What can I do instead?"

Mama said, "Let's do some fun things at home!"

They painted colorful pictures together.

Then, they made a yummy fruit salad.

Aisha helped Mama bake delicious cookies.

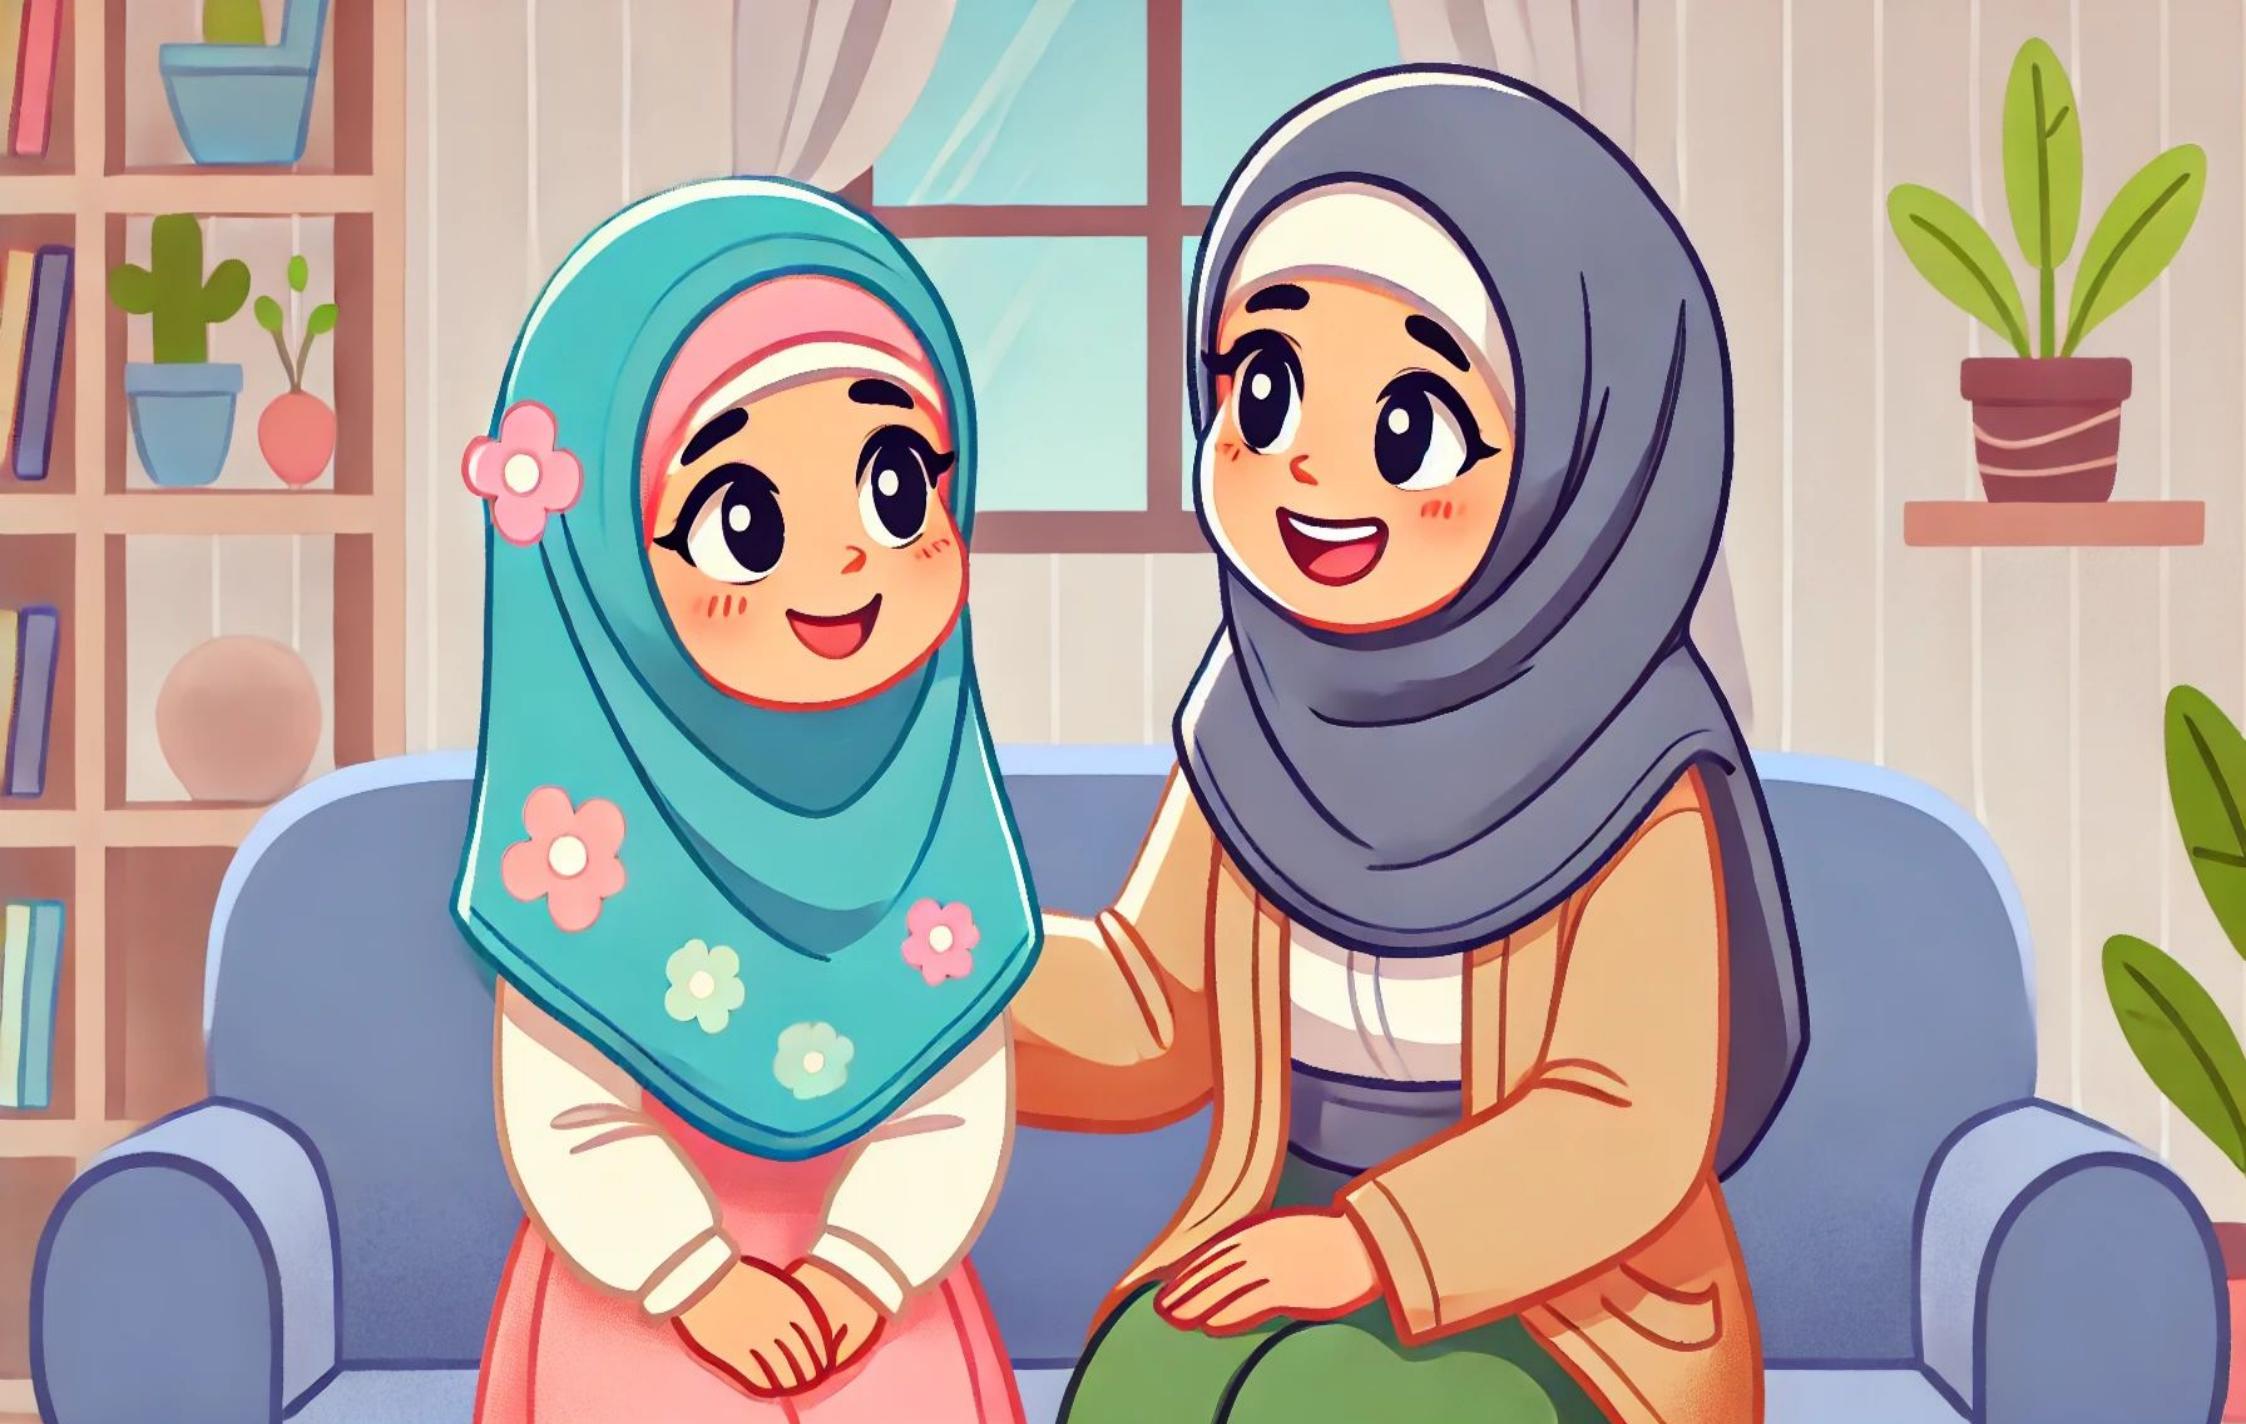

They built a cozy fort with blankets and pillows.

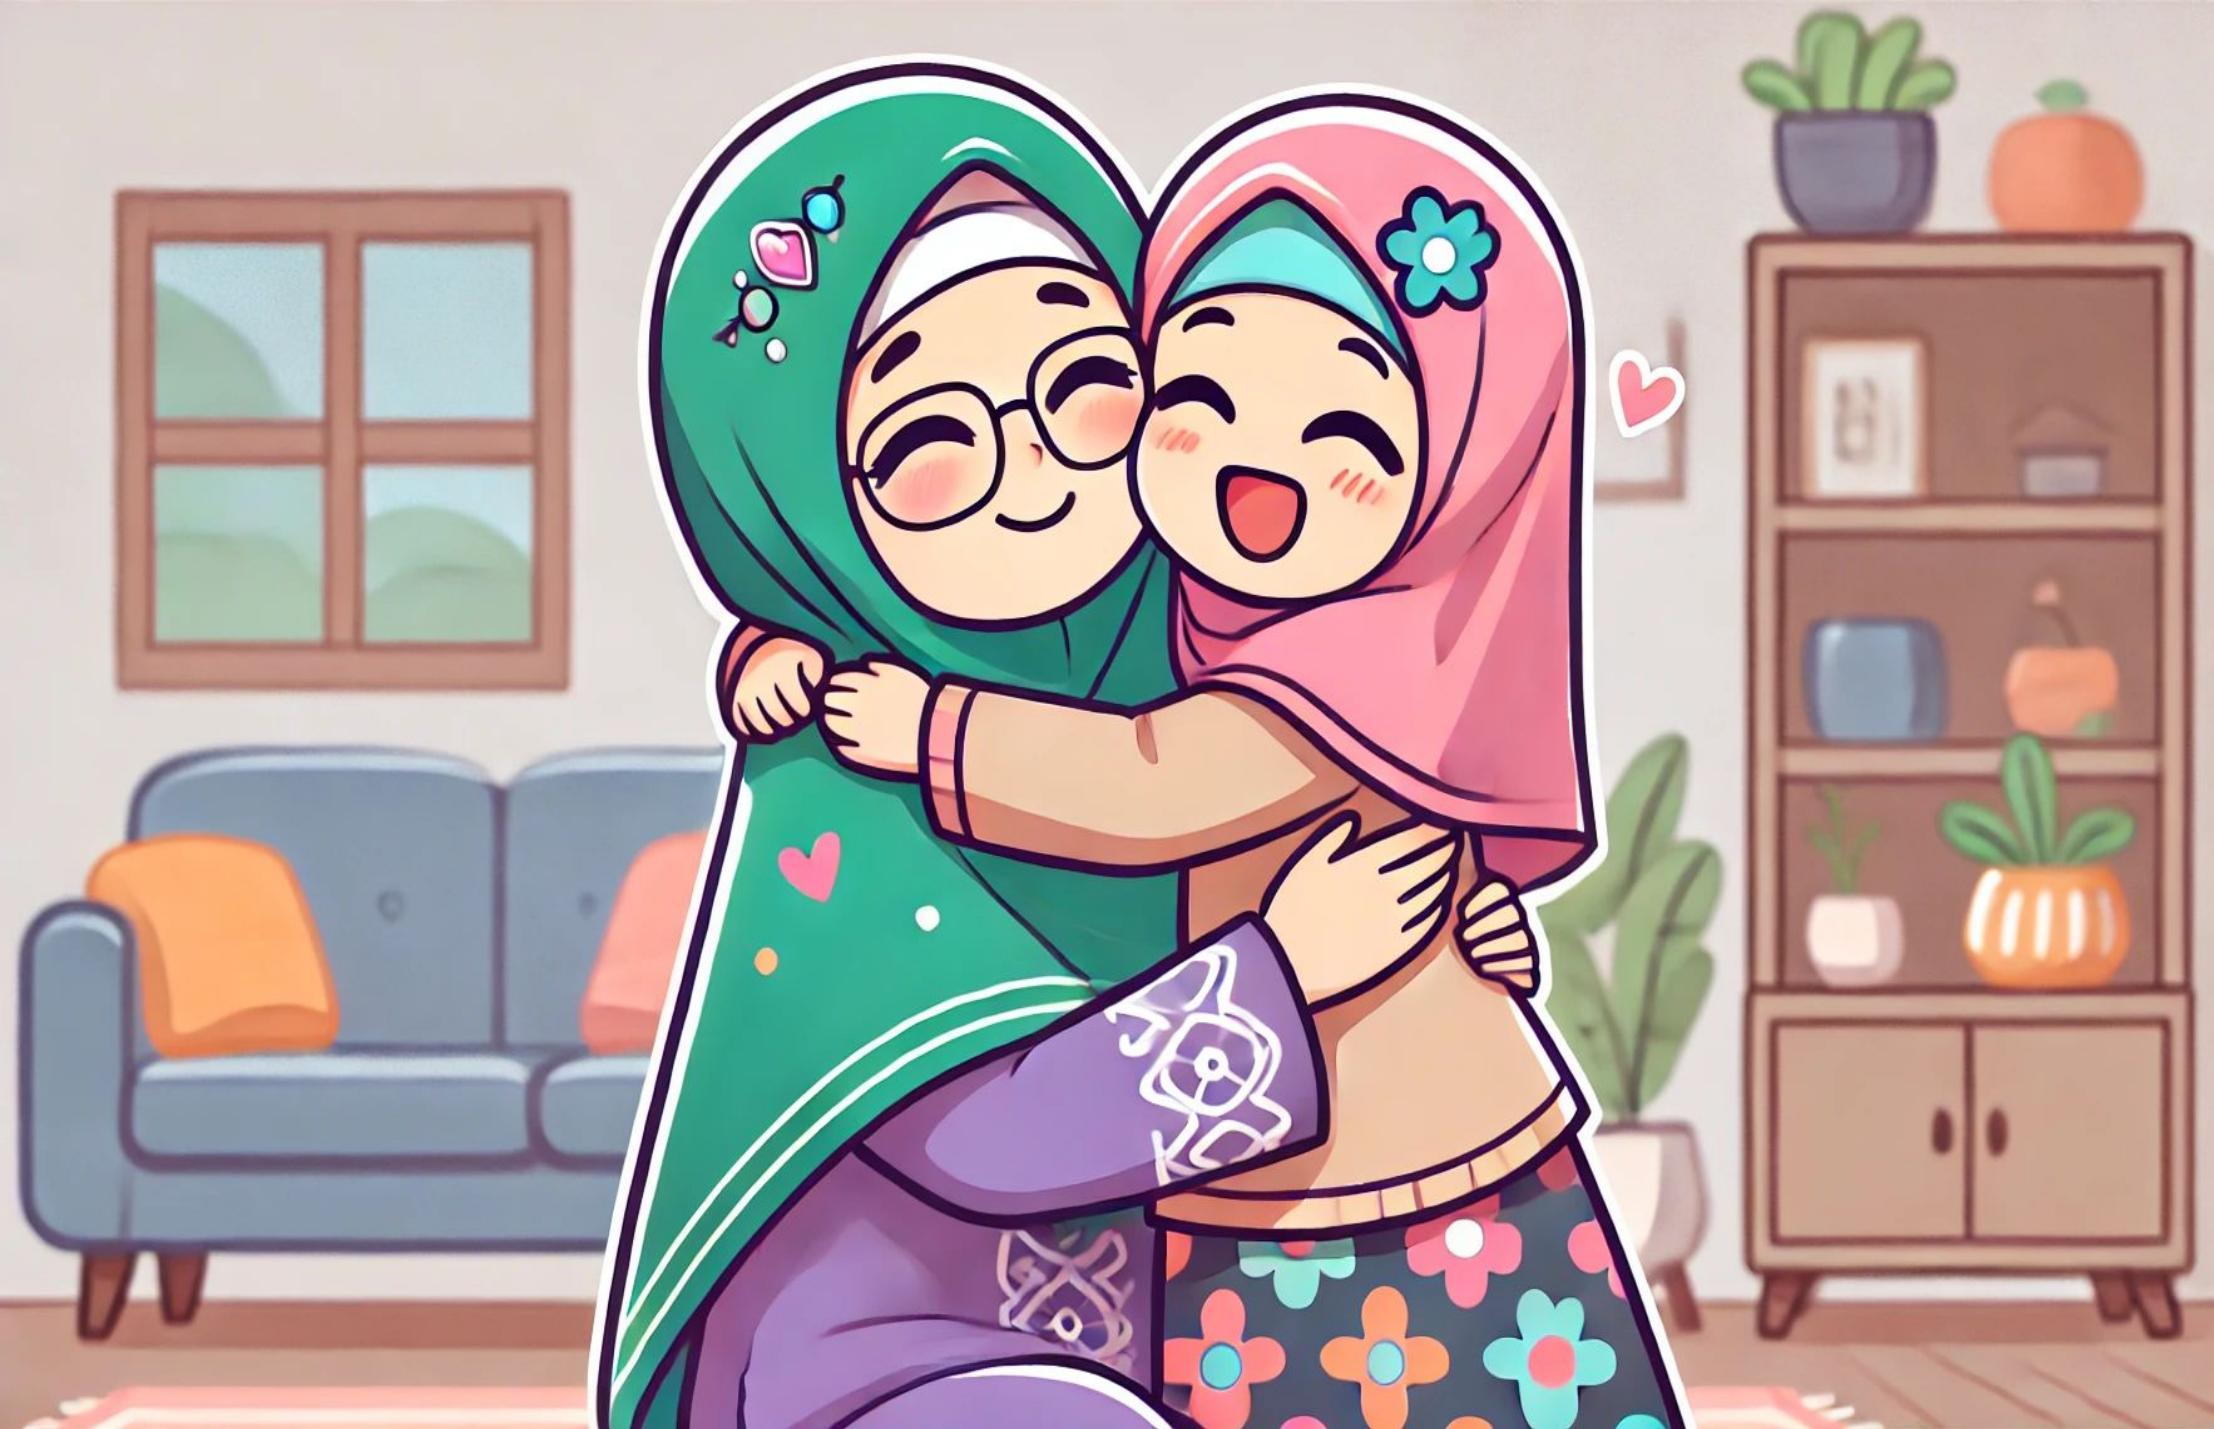

Aisha played with her toy cars, zooming them around.

They did a fun puzzle with animal shapes.

Mama said, "See, there are many fun things to do without a mobile."

Aisha hugged Mama and said, "Thank you, Mama."

That night, Aisha slept soundly, dreaming of more home adventures.

Aisha learned that real adventures are more fun than any screen!
